Additional Information:

Ana is a single 23 year old hispanic mom. She has two health children that are 8 and 9 (yes she had them very young) She is very independent. She has no family or friends, she raised herself and has been in survival mode for a long time.

She was recently homeless for 3 months. BUT since then has gotten an apartment and is able to work virtually with her job. When she was getting back on her feet she found out she was pregnant. This was a very devastating time for her as she struggles to provide for her two children.

She said she prayed about this pregnancy and hopes that not only find a family for her baby, but to find a family that will be open to her and her two kids as well. Her children will see and know about the pregnancy and adoption plan. Not knowing how this will affect them when the times comes for the baby to go with the family she chooses. She is hoping to develop a trusting relationship during her pregnancy and for her children to know that the baby would not be going to "strangers", but to "family" someone we have been developing a relationship with.

This mom will need expenses covered as they come up. She does have medicaid, job and current housing.

BUT she is struggling. She did state she would be willing to relocate closer to a family in order to have a meaningful relationship.

Birthfather is unknown but is full hispanic.

Ana has no drug, no alcohol and no mental health issues. She is a very sweet loving mom who what's the best for her unborn child as well as her children.

She has provided proof of pregnancy and is willing to get test done to determine gender if that is something important to a family that she considers.

Please only submit if you are able to provide an open adoption for this mom!
