Hello Precious Birth Parents,

We are Treasure and Steve, and we want to share with you our hearts and home, filled with love, laughter, and the promise of a beautiful future for a little one. This journey to parenthood has been paved with hopes and dreams, and although we've faced hurdles, our arms remain open and ready to embrace a new life into our family.

Living with Love & Support

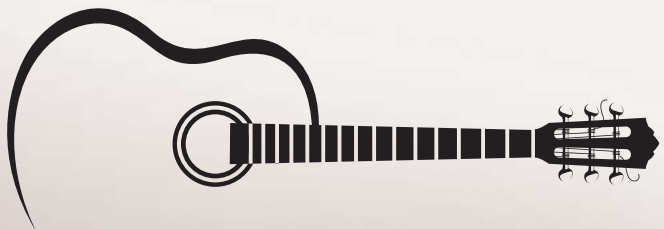

When Treasure's father passed, we knew Nancy, Treasure's mother, would need company and love. We now live together in a two-family home, ensuring Nancy is never alone. This close-knit living arrangement strengthens our family bond, providing love and support just steps away.

Our Love Story...

We met by a stroke of luck at a Kenny Chesney concert back in 2005. It was as if the stars aligned and led us to choose seats right next to each other. From the very first note, our lives harmonized in a melody of love and togetherness. We've been a team ever since, turning moments into cherished memories.

Enjoying Simple Pleasures Together

We find happiness in life's simple pleasures, like gathering for a board game night or cuddling up for a movie. These moments, filled with laughter and love, are the ones we treasure the most.

Why Adoption

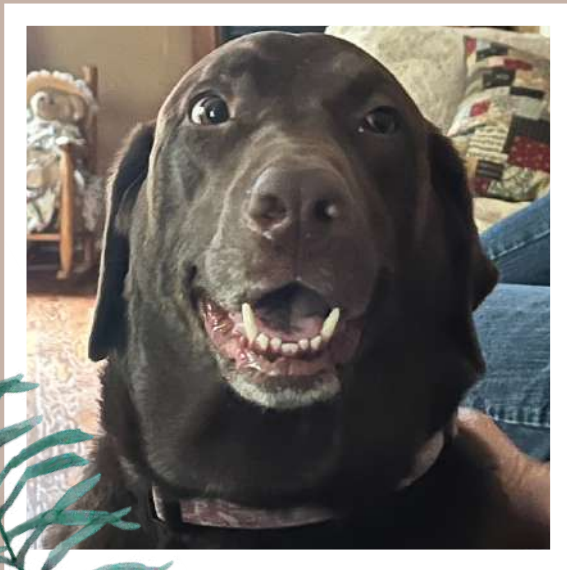

Adoption is a bridge to fulfilling our dreams of becoming parents. It's a journey we respect deeply, filled with courage and love. We feel a profound connection to this path and we're ready to welcome a child with open hearts.

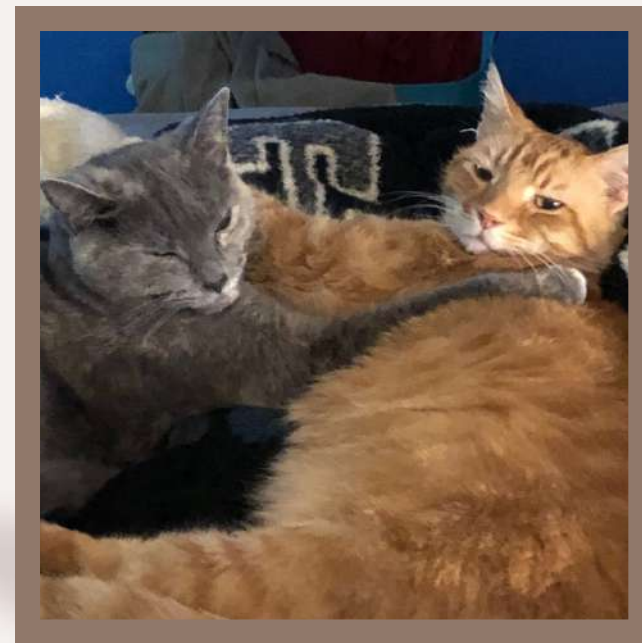

A Word from Nancy, Grandma-to-Be

Treasure has a heart full of love for children. She's going to be an incredible mother. Her enthusiasm and compassion are boundless. And Steve, once past his shyness, his warmth and humor shine through. They complement each other perfectly.

Our Furry Friends

Our four-legged family members bring joy and giggles. Elsa and Dixon (our cats) are playful and cuddly, while Dakota and Pasiley (our dogs) are protective and love to shower everyone with affection.

Our Home

A Sanctuary of Fun and Freedom

Our bond is unbreakable, filled with roaring laughter and steadfast commitment to one another. Our home, nestled in the heart of nature, is a sanctuary. We dream of adding a pirate-themed playhouse or swing set in our backyard for future adventures. It's a place where children can freely ride their bikes, swing towards the sky, and the older ones can venture out on ATVs. Both our front and back porches serve as ideal spots for family get-togethers, or simply to relax and watch the sunset after a day brimming with excitement.

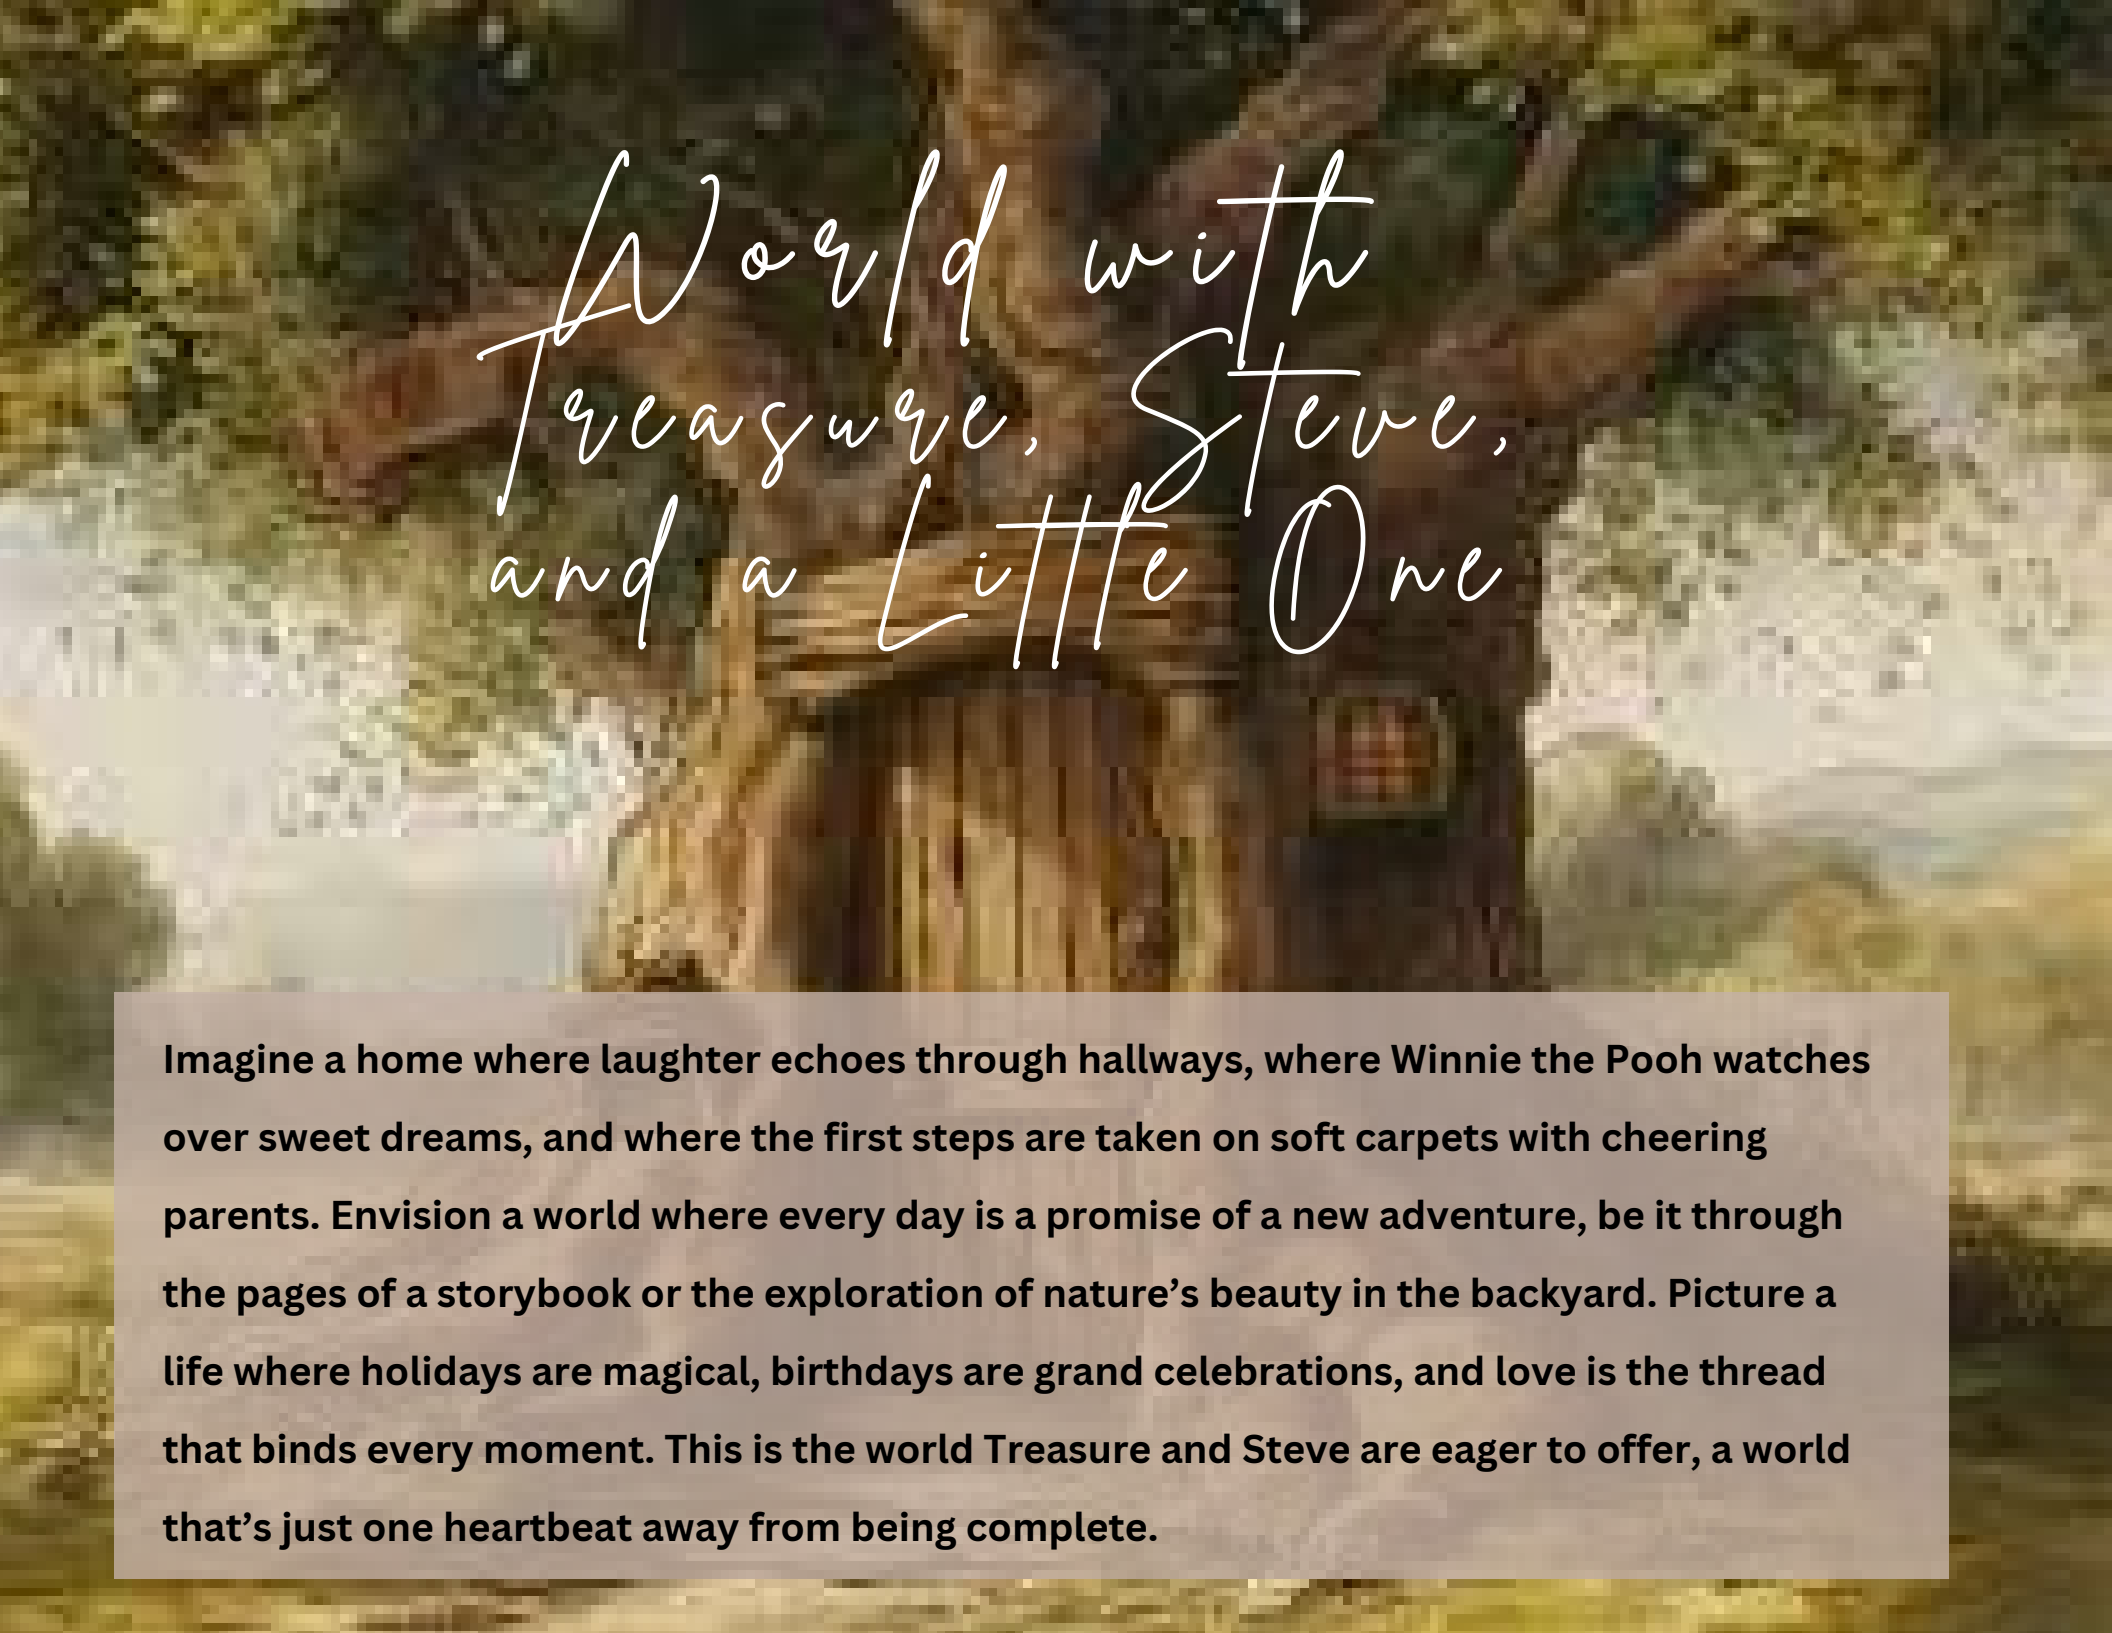

Nursery

"Sometimes the smallest things take up the most room in your heart. And sometimes, the heart grows bigger to make room for someone chosen, someone new. That's the wonderful thing about adoption—it's the way love comes home."

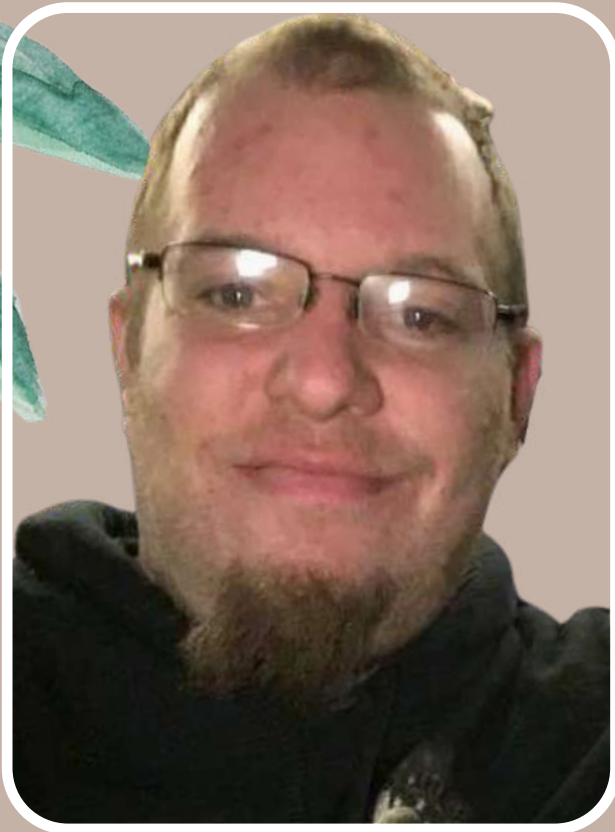

- Winnie the Pooh

World with Treasure, Steve, and a Little One

Imagine a home where laughter echoes through hallways, where Winnie the Pooh watches over sweet dreams, and where the first steps are taken on soft carpets with cheering parents. Envision a world where every day is a promise of a new adventure, be it through the pages of a storybook or the exploration of nature's beauty in the backyard. Picture a life where holidays are magical, birthdays are grand celebrations, and love is the thread that binds every moment. This is the world Treasure and Steve are eager to offer, a world that's just one heartbeat away from being complete.

About Treasure

I always knew my calling was to be a mom. While life threw us a curveball and we've faced the challenges of infertility, my heart has never wavered from the dream of nurturing a child. My days are filled with thoughts of story times, Disney movie marathons, and endless cuddles in a nursery that's missing just one thing – the laughter and joy of a baby.

Occupation: I am employed at a call center specializing in financial services..

Hobbies: My passions are sewing and finding treasures at thrift stores.

Best Attributes: My heart is my guide – it's full of compassion, resilience, and endless love.

Our Personalities: A Perfect Balance

Steve is quiet, shy, and competitive, with a love for board games and the thrill of victory.

Treasure is bubbly, compassionate, fun, and determined, though sometimes a bit impatient.

Steve often says, "I'm the Ying to her Yang," reflecting their harmonious balance.

Treasure channels her creativity through sewing and crafting, transforming the ordinary into something uniquely beautiful. Steve, a sports enthusiast, cherishes his baseball card collection, enjoys country music, and delves into military books and documentaries.

In our family, love knows no bounds and is as diverse as the colors of a rainbow. We are blessed with cousins who are biracial - one who is Latino and Caucasian, and another who is Caucasian and African American. These beautiful connections in our family provide 'racial mirrors,' offering a child of any background the reflection of themselves within our family circle.

Family Ties

Family means the world to us. Treasure's mom eagerly awaits the chance to spoil a grandchild, and Steve's parents look forward to sharing their wisdom and love. Our siblings, with kids of their own, can't wait for another cousin to join the family fun.

Our Family Traditions

Christmas in our home is a time of joy and family. We cherish the tradition of cutting down our own Christmas tree and baking cookies, filling our home with the scents of the season and the warmth of family love.

The Renaissance festival is a highlight, where we immerse ourselves in a world of wonder and history.

Our vacations and yearly activities are adventures we hold dear. We adore Disney! It's a place where our goofy and fun-loving sides shine, reminding us of the joy in being authentically ourselves.

We cherish every day, living it to the fullest with laughter, fun, and an endless pursuit of creating unforgettable memories. And in this journey of life, filled with enchantment and excitement, we dream of one day sharing all these moments with a child. A child to love, to nurture, and to introduce to the magic of life's simple pleasures.

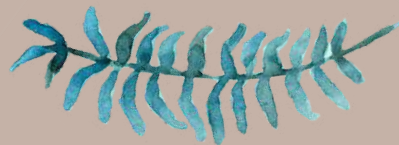

Riding the rides, basking in the magic of Disney, and exploring new adventures, we envision a future where our family grows, bonded by love, fun, and the countless memories we'll create together. As we anticipate the joy of parenthood, our hearts are filled with excitement and love, ready to welcome a new little one into our fun-filled, magical world.

Our Hopes and Dreams

Together, we envision a future filled with love, laughter, and adventure. Our home is a place where a child can grow, learn, and be loved unconditionally. We eagerly anticipate the day we can share our world with a new member of our family, completing the picture of our life together. Every sleepless night, every dance recital, and every little league game will be a cherished chapter in our life's story. We long for the first steps, the first words, and the first day of school. With hearts and hands ready, we await the chance to offer a child a lifetime of happiness.

Thank you for considering us. By choosing us, you're not just giving a child a home, but also a future filled with love, laughter, and endless support. We hope to offer a life where every day is an adventure, and every night is soothed with love and bedtime stories.

Warmly, Treasure and Steve
