Things I admire Most in My Spouse

Samantha about Brant:

Brant is endlessly patient. Whether he's fixing something around the house, helping with homework, or explaining how something works for the third time—he never loses his calm. He meets our kids with curiosity and care, and he's the kind of dad who dances in the kitchen, reads one more book, and shows up every time. I love that his favorite place in the world is our 22-acre property—he finds peace in the trees, joy in a quiet walk with the dogs, and purpose in creating a home grounded in nature and love.

Brant about Samantha:

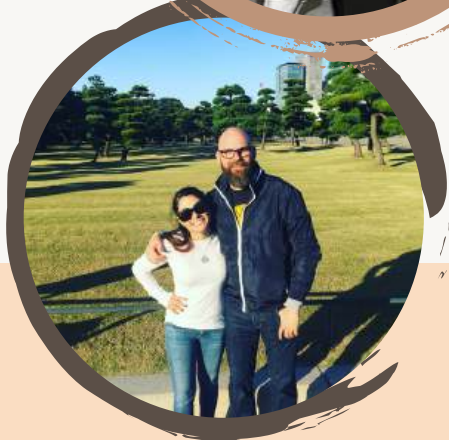

Samantha is all heart. She loves deeply, shows up fully, and has this incredible way of making people feel known and valued. I also love how much joy she brings to our home—she lights up around her garden, makes every holiday feel magical, and puts thought into every seasonal decoration and tradition. She makes ordinary days feel special, and special days unforgettable.

Our Thoughts on Open Adoption

We believe open adoption can be a beautiful gift—for the child, for the birth family, and for us as adoptive parents. We are open to ongoing contact in whatever form feels comfortable and meaningful to you—whether that's visits, updates, pictures, or conversations over time. We want your child to grow up knowing where they came from, how deeply they are loved, and the strength and selflessness of your decision.

We're here for you..

...with open hearts, open arms, and deep respect for whatever path you choose. We know this isn't easy—and no matter where you are in your journey, we want you to feel supported, seen, and not alone.

If you choose adoption and feel we might be the right fit, we promise to raise your child with unconditional love, rooted in faith, joy, and stability. We will honor their story—including yours—with honesty, care, and gratitude.

Thank you for taking the time to get to know our family.

We are praying for you and your little one every step of the way.

Thinking of you,

Samantha & Brant
