

HEY THERE!

We're so glad you're here, taking a moment to learn about our family. I'm a proud mom to two wonderful teenagers, 14 and 17, to whom my husband has lovingly become a devoted and caring stepdad. Since the very start of our marriage, we've dreamed of raising a child, and we truly believe that adoption is the special path God has placed on our hearts in order to do so. Together, we've built a family full of joy, laughter, and encouragement, and we eagerly await the chance to welcome another child into it. Above all, we want you to know we deeply respect your strength and the incredible love guiding your decision. It would be a true honor to be part of your child's story.

A few of our FAVORITE THINGS

- Wake surfing
- Beach vacations
- Watching our teens play sports
- Adventuring outdoors

Mike and I first met about ten years ago while working at the same health and nutrition company. Though our connection was instant, we followed different paths until, two years later, when God brought us back together in a way that felt truly meant to be. Shortly after we began dating, Mike was diagnosed with cancer—a test that could have shaken any new relationship. Instead, it became the foundation of our faith and commitment. By God’s grace, Mike’s cancer was cured within the year. His doctors still call him the “miracle man,” and we know he’s here because God has more plans for us together.

From the start, adventure and quality time with loved ones fill our lives. You’ll often find us surfing behind our boat, fishing off the dock, hiking in the mountains with our dogs, watching sunsets and/or football on our porch, or cheering on our teens at their games. Our faith is the heart of our home, filling it with love, patience, and hope.

Our KIDDOS

Our kids are our pride and joy. Our son is a high school senior heading off to college next year to play football—he's one of the kindest, "old souls" you'll ever meet. Our daughter, a freshman and stellar softball player, is known for her humor, smarts, and zest for life. They both absolutely adore their stepsister, sharing a bond filled with love and laughter, and are genuinely excited to welcome another sibling into the family. Watching them grow into such wonderful, caring individuals has been our greatest blessing, and we're looking forward with full hearts to the joy of watching our family grow even more
