About Us

We met in 2004 at a summer camp. After being friends for a year, we dated long-distance.

In 2008 we were married on a beautiful fall day. We look back on that day with joy, remembering the commitment we made to one another with our family and close friends present. Lannie is a paraprofessional and works with special needs children. He loves coffee and pizza. He loves cooking for friends and family and having good conversations. Sara is a registered nurse. She works from home, which will be perfect when we bring home a precious baby. She loves spending quality time with our nieces and nephews. She enjoys tv time and movie watching. She loves Harry Potter and she loves baking! We love working in our garden together and playing with our three weenie dogs. We also enjoy travelling, especially on cruises. We often take drives around the beautiful town we call home taking in its beautiful scenery, visiting a local farmer's market, or trying a new coffee shop or restaurant.

Sara, Through Lannie's Eyes

Sara is the kindest person I know. She is strong, courageous, loving, and compassionate. She makes our house a home. Everything she does is done with excellence and with a deep care and love for others. I am so eager to see her mother our future child because she loves so deeply and I know there is a child somewhere that will be blessed by her. She will be an awesome mother because she loves others and thinks about their needs over her own. She is also the "fun aunt" so I know she'll definitely be the "fun mom"!

Lannie, Through Sara's Eyes

Lannie is the sweetest, most tender-hearted and caring man I know. He never leaves any room for doubt regarding his love for me or others; and I know it will be the same with our child. He is selfless, consistent, hardworking, and passionate about everything he does. Above all, his integrity and deep conviction to do the right thing has always driven him in life, and no doubt, will also shape the way he parents and continues to grow as a father. I am so excited to parent with him and see how he leads and cares for his family as it grows.

Lannie's Family

Lannie's family is large and diverse. He has an older brother and sister, twins. His father, who adopted them, is retired and over the moon about having another grandbaby. Lannie has a lot of nieces and nephews that he loves to spend time with, especially during holidays. His family values family traditions when gathered together during holidays. Their favorite tradition is making homemade ravioli for Easter Sunday!

Sara's Family

Sara has a smaller, tight-knit family. She has an older brother and sister who are both married with families. Five years ago, her sister and her husband adopted a little boy who loves to play at Uncle Lannie and Aunt "Sassy's" house. All the nieces and nephews are excited to play with a new niece or nephew. Sara's mom is a retired teacher who is looking forward to keeping a new grandbaby.

Friends

We love to spend time with family friends, too. We have a great support group of people who have become more family than friends. We truly enjoy hibachi night with our friends! We often find ourselves driving to new cities to try new restaurants with close friends. We find ourselves playing board games or trying out new escape rooms to pass time with family and friends. All these fun outings will be much sweeter with a new little one.

Home

We have a two-story, four-bedroom house at the end of a cul-de-sac in a quiet neighborhood. Many children play outside or ride bikes, while families often take walks together. We are only a few minutes away from our local rec center, with hiking trails, ball parks, and playgrounds. We have a crib and a baby's room that is ready to go! We are excited to decorate for a boy or a girl! We also have three sweet weenie dogs that love children and are eagerly awaiting a new little brother or sister!

Thank you for reviewing our book. We are honored that you have considered us.
